

European Patent Attorney

Kapelle-op-den-Bos, near Brussels, Belgium or Avignon, France

The Opportunity:

Join our 13,000 teammates and make a difference to how people live and work all over the world! At Etex, you will become part of an international leader that offers plenty of opportunities for self-development while providing for a balanced life. Our values of 'Connect and Care', 'Passion for Excellence' and 'Pioneer to Lead' enable us to develop ever more effective and sustainable lightweight solutions through our curiosity and versatility.

The Role:

Work on a range of projects both locally and internationally. Establish yourself as a true partner of the business and become the inhouse IP expert, providing knowledge to generate significant commercial value. Educate and integrate with all clients to raise the IP profile in the company. Be part of an integral team of Patent and Trademark Attorneys working on all aspects of patent related matters. Strive to continue to engage stakeholders and further create an IP-centric culture within the company.

The Requirements:

We are looking to appoint someone with drive, energy and flexibility. Someone who has an ambition to grow and develop the business in line with its commercial aims - to ensure its success.

You will need your solid background in chemical engineering, mechanical engineering, or related degree, to make an impact on the variety of innovation coming out of the organization and throughout the entire value chain. You will have the EPA qualification – this is a role which requires independence of thinking and action and although you have the support of your colleagues and co-workers, you are the patent expert to the projects under your charge.

Be an intricate member of a strong and successful team working closely with inventors, R&D managers, cluster managers, senior commercial managers and product development and legal teams. Build relationships and networks across the organization and be the true in-house expert to your teammates!

In summary, as an Etex teammate, you can truly make a difference when it comes to our vision of 'Inspiring Ways of Living'. In return, we will generously reward you by investing in your professional development.
